TiVo works with your TV system.

Purchase a personal video recorder and sign up to receive the TiVo Service. The recorder connects easily between your TV set and cable (digital or analog set-top box), satellite receiver, or antenna.

The TiVo Service works by automatically making a brief daily phone call (toll-free, of course) to get the up-to-date information TiVo needs to provide your service. Not only that, TiVo sends you feature enhancements as soon as they become available—through the same phone connection to your personal video recorder. And while TiVo uses your existing phone line, it will never interrupt you while you're using the phone.
